Welcome

Who am I? Why was I born? Am I good enough?

To survive in our chaotic world, kids need the security of knowing their true identity isn't defined by their peers or by social influencers. Their true identity is based on who God says they are. Kids must understand and internalize what God says about them if they are to reach their full potential. When they're secure in that truth, their lives will reflect his beauty.

In these five lessons kids will discover what identity is, learn the importance of names, explore what it means to be "made in God's image", find assurance that circumstances don't define their identity, and become confident that they are chosen by God.

"True identity isn't defined by what we hope we can be, but by believing who we already are."
